“To me,
a big part of the beauty
of an object
is what it’s next to.”

AARON HOM

“My workroom is where I come up with ideas for my jobs,” says Hom, who uses his Ikea bookcases as his substitute inspiration board. “At one point the shelves were filled with 50 shopping bags from different stores. Right now I’m working on a project where I use typography and graphics. That’s why you see the numbers and letters here and scattered around the house. I like to sit in my Jacobsen Swan chair—it has its original leather—and do my reading and thinking.”
